Ingal Civil Products opens in South Australia

Ingal Civil Products has opened a new distribution facility in South Australia. The site located in the Adelaide suburb of Wingfield will provide the same level of service and product currently available through our Perth, Melbourne, Brisbane and Sydney facilities.

As Ingal's product range continues to grow, the South Australian market will now have direct access to the latest road safety barriers, motorcyclist barriers, car park barriers, workzone and traffic control products.

Ralph Dauk, South Australian Sales Manager, says Ingal is well placed to service the continuing investment in road infrastructure spending throughout the state.

"The opening of a South Australian distribution centre is a key part of our strategy to establish direct representation throughout Australia. We are proud of our reputation as a supplier of innovative, high quality products and the company is now well positioned within South Australia to service the state's needs with prompt attention."
